“Specified Procedures Engagements”

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
Introduction X.1 This proposed standard applies to engagements in which a CPA in the practice of public accounting is engaged to issue, or does issue, a practitioner’s specified procedures report on subject matter. In an engagement performed in accordance with this section, the practitioner does not perform an examination or a review and does not provide an opinion or conclusion. In addition, a specified procedures engagement is not an agreed-upon procedures engagement. The practitioner’s report on specified procedures is in the form of procedures performed and findings. The report may be intended for a broad range of users and is not required to be restricted as to use. (Ref: par. X.A1-.X.A4)	Introduction (Ref: par. X.1) X.A1 An agreed-upon procedures engagement is one in which a practitioner is engaged to issue, or does issue a practitioner’s report of findings based on specific agreed-upon procedures applied to subject matter for use by specified parties. AT-C section 215, Agreed-Upon Procedures Engagements contains performance and reporting requirements and application guidance for all agreed-upon procedures engagements. X.A2 The fundamental differences between a specified procedures engagement and an agreed-upon procedures engagement are <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An agreed-upon procedures engagement is predicated on the concept that a party other than the practitioner makes an assertion about whether the subject matter is measured or evaluated in accordance with suitable criteria. In a specified procedures engagement, there is no requirement for the practitioner to request or obtain such an assertion. • An agreed-upon procedures engagement requires the specified parties to assume responsibility for the sufficiency of the procedures. In a specified procedures engagement, no party is required to assume responsibility for the sufficiency of the procedures. • An agreed-upon procedures engagement requires the practitioner to request certain written representations from the responsible party. In a specified procedures engagement, written representations are not required. • In an agreed-upon procedures engagement, the use of the practitioner’s report is required to be restricted to the specified parties. There is no such requirement to restrict the use of the

Scope of This Standard X.2 When a practitioner performs services pursuant to an engagement to issue a practitioner's specified procedures report on subject matter as part of or in addition to another form of service, this proposed standard applies only to those services described herein; other professional standards would apply to the other services. (Ref: par. X.A5)	practitioner's report in a specified procedures engagement. X.A3 Nothing in this standard is intended to preclude a practitioner from performing a specified procedures engagement and an agreed-upon procedures engagement on the same subject matter. X.A4 Individual users of the specified procedures report would make their own determination as to how the report is to be used and relied upon based on the procedures performed and the results obtained. Scope of This Standard (Ref: par. X.2) X.A5 Another form of service may include an audit, review, compilation, or preparation of financial statements; an examination, review, or agreed-upon procedures engagement performed pursuant to the attestation standards; or a nonattest service other than financial statement preparation such as engagements performed in accordance with Statement on Standards for Consulting Services. A practitioner's specified procedures report may be combined with a practitioner's report on such other services, provided the types of services can be clearly distinguished and the applicable standards for each service are followed.
Objectives X.3 In conducting a specified procedures engagement, the objectives of the practitioner are to <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. apply procedures to the subject matter; and b. issue a written practitioner's report that describes the procedures applied and the practitioner's findings.
Requirements
Conduct of a Specified Procedures Engagement X.4 In performing a specified procedures engagement, the practitioner should comply with this section and [reference to Common Concepts section].
Preconditions for a Specified Procedures Engagement

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
X.5 Paragraph Y.24 of [reference to Common Concepts section] indicates that a practitioner must be independent when performing a direct engagement in accordance with the direct engagement standards unless the practitioner is required by law or regulation to accept the engagement and report on the subject matter. When the practitioner is not independent but is required by law or regulation to accept a specified procedures engagement and report on the subject matter, the practitioner’s report should specifically state that the practitioner is not independent. The practitioner is neither required to provide, nor precluded from providing, the reasons for the lack of independence; however, if the practitioner chooses to provide the reasons for the lack of independence, the practitioner should include all the reasons therefor.
Agreeing on the Terms of the Engagement X.6 The practitioner should agree upon the terms of the engagement with the engaging party. The agreed-upon terms of the engagement should be specified in sufficient detail in an engagement letter or other suitable form of written agreement. (Ref: par. X.A6-X.A7)	Agreeing on the Terms of the Engagement (Ref: par. X.6-X.7, X.10 and X.16) X.A6 An oral understanding of the terms of the engagement is not sufficient. An engagement letter is the most common and usually the most convenient method for documenting the understanding with management regarding the services to be performed for a specified procedures engagement. X.A7 It is in the interests of both the engaging party and the practitioner to document the agreed-upon terms of the engagement before the commencement of the engagement to help avoid misunderstandings. For example, it reduces the risk that the engaging party may inappropriately rely on or expect the practitioner to protect the engaging party against certain risks or perform certain functions, including those that are the engaging party’s responsibility. The form and content of the engagement letter or other suitable form of written agreement may vary with the engagement circumstances.
X.7 The agreed-upon terms of the engagement should include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> a. The objectives of the engagement b. Identification of the engaging party 	X.A8 The criteria may be indicated in the procedures as opposed to described separately.

f. The responsibilities of the practitioner (Ref: par. X.A12-X.A13)	X.A11 While there is no requirement for the engaging party to acknowledge responsibility for the sufficiency of the procedures to meet the objectives of the engagement, the engaging party’s responsibilities include acknowledging the procedures performed. If known at the onset of the engagement, the practitioner may request that the engaging party acknowledge the procedures to be performed in the engagement letter. Such acknowledgement may also be included in an amendment to the engagement letter, in a representation letter, or some other written communication. X.A12 The responsibility of the practitioner is to carry out the procedures and report the findings in accordance with the attestation standards. The practitioner assumes the risk that misapplication of the procedures may result in inappropriate findings being reported. Furthermore, the practitioner assumes the risk that appropriate findings may not be reported or may be reported inaccurately. The practitioner’s risks can be reduced through adequate planning and supervision and due professional care in performing the procedures, accumulating the findings, and preparing the practitioner’s report. X.A13 The practitioner has no responsibility to determine the differences between the specified procedures to be performed and the procedures that the practitioner would have determined to be necessary had the practitioner been engaged to perform another form of attestation engagement. The procedures that the practitioner performs pursuant to a specified procedures engagement may be more or less extensive than the procedures that the practitioner would determine to be necessary had the practitioner been engaged to perform another form of engagement.
g. The limitations of a specified procedures engagement, including a statement that the procedures performed may not address all of the items of interest to a user and may not meet the needs of all users. (Ref: par. X.A14-X.A15) h. A statement that the engagement will be conducted in accordance with attestation standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants	X.A14 The limitations of a specified procedures engagement include instances in which the source data may be not be complete or accurate, the user may infer a level of assurance from the procedures performed and findings, and procedures or findings may not be appropriate for general use. Such instances include procedures or findings that: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • may not be understood by a general audience, • may be associated with laws or regulations, or

Requirements	Application and Other Explanatory Material
X.11 The procedures performed pursuant to paragraph X.10 should specify the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures. (Ref: par. X.A19–.A23)	nothing precludes the engaging party or an other party from taking such responsibility or the practitioner from requesting that the engaging party or other party take such responsibility. X.A19 The procedures to be performed may be as limited or as extensive as determined to be appropriate to meet the objectives of the engagement. However, mere reading of specified information about the subject matter does not constitute a procedure sufficient to permit a practitioner to report on the results of specified procedures. X.A20 Examples of appropriate procedures include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Execution of a sampling application in accordance with relevant parameters • Inspection of specified documents evidencing certain types of transactions or detailed attributes thereof • Confirmation of specific information with third parties • Comparison of documents, schedules, or analyses with certain specified attributes • Performance of specific procedures on work performed by others • Performance of mathematical computations X.A21 Examples of inappropriate procedures include the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mere reading of the work performed by others solely to describe their findings • Evaluating the competency or objectivity of another party

X.12 The practitioner should utilize professional judgment in making a determination as to whether the specified procedures are sufficiently precise and clear. The practitioner should not perform procedures that are open to varying interpretations or that use vague or ambiguous language. Terms of uncertain meaning (such as general review, limited review, check, or test) should not be used in describing the procedures. (Ref: par. X.A24)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Obtaining an understanding about a particular subject • Interpreting documents outside the scope of the practitioner’s professional expertise X.A22 If the practitioner is selecting a sample, stating the size of the sample and how the selection was made contributes to the specificity of the description of procedures performed (for example, 50 items starting at the eighth item and selecting every fifteenth item thereafter or invoices issued from May 1 to July 31, 20XX). X.A23 Examples of other information the practitioner may include are the date the procedure was performed and the sources of information used in performing the procedure. X.A24 To avoid vague or ambiguous language, the procedures to be performed are characterized by the action to be taken at a level of specificity sufficient for a reader to understand the nature and extent of the procedures performed. Examples of acceptable descriptions of actions are the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Inspect • Compare • Agree • Trace • Inquire • Recalculate • Observe • Mathematically check Conversely, the following descriptions of actions (unless defined to indicate the nature, timing, and extent of the procedures associated with these

X.13 The practitioner should obtain evidence from applying the specified procedures to provide a reasonable basis for the finding or findings expressed in the practitioner’s report but need not perform additional procedures outside of the objectives of the engagement to gather additional evidence.
Using the Work of a Practitioner’s External Specialist	Using the Work of a Practitioner’s External Specialist (Ref: par. X.14)
X.14 If a practitioner’s external specialist is engaged to assist the practitioner in performing a specified procedures engagement, the practitioner’s report should describe the nature of the assistance provided by the external specialist. (Ref: par. X.A25-X.A26)	X.A25 The practitioner’s education and experience enable the practitioner to be knowledgeable about business matters in general, but the practitioner is not expected to have the expertise of a person trained for or qualified to engage in the practice of another profession or occupation. In certain circumstances, it may be appropriate to involve a practitioner’s external specialist to assist the practitioner in the performance of one or more procedures. The following are examples of such circumstances. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • An attorney providing assistance concerning the interpretation of legal terminology in laws, regulations, rules, contracts, or grants • A medical specialist providing assistance in understanding the characteristics of diagnosis codes documented in patient

For example, the practitioner may make reference to information contained in a report of a practitioner's external specialist in describing a specified procedure. However, it is inappropriate for the practitioner to merely read the external specialist's report solely to describe or repeat the findings or to take responsibility for all or a portion of any procedures performed by an external specialist or the external specialist's work product.
Using the Work of Internal Auditors or Other Practitioners	Using the Work of Internal Auditors or Other Practitioners
X.15 The specified procedures to be enumerated or referred to in the practitioner's report should be performed entirely by the engagement team or other practitioners. (Ref: par. X.A27–.X.A29)	Using the Work of Internal Auditors (Ref: par. X.15) X.A27 Internal auditors or other personnel may prepare schedules and accumulate data or provide other information for the practitioner's use in performing the specified procedures. Also, internal auditors may perform and report separately on procedures that they have carried out. Such procedures may be similar to those that a practitioner may perform under this proposed standard. X.A28 A practitioner may perform procedures on information documented in the working papers of internal auditors. For example, the practitioner may <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • repeat all or some of the procedures. • determine whether the internal auditors' documentation indicates

Findings X.16 The practitioner should present the results of applying specified procedures to subject matter in the form of findings.	Findings (Ref: par. X.17 and X.19)
X.17 The practitioner should report all findings from the application of the specified procedures. Any materiality limits should be described in the practitioner’s report. (Ref: par. X.A30 and X.A34) X.18 If, as a result of performing procedures, the practitioner determines that the description of the procedures performed or the corresponding findings result in a misleading specified procedures report, the practitioner should discuss the matter with the engaging party and take appropriate action. (Ref: par. X.A31)	X.A30 An example of language in the practitioner’s report that describes a materiality limit is “For purposes of performing these specified procedures, no exceptions were reported for differences of $1,000 or less resulting solely from the rounding of amounts disclosed.” X.A31 An appropriate action that the practitioner may take when, as a result of performing procedures, the practitioner determines that the description of the procedures performed or the corresponding findings result in a misleading specified procedures report may include revising the procedures or omitting findings (for example, as a result of establishing a materiality limit for reporting exceptions when exceptions were identified as a result of rounding differences). If appropriate revisions are not made to the procedures or the findings, the practitioner may determine to withdraw from the engagement and inform the engaging party for the reasons for withdrawing.
X.19 In reporting findings, the practitioner should (Ref: par. X.A34) a. Not use vague or ambiguous language; (Ref: par. X.A32)	X.A32 Because the specified procedures report is not required to be restricted as to use, the practitioner cannot ascertain the understanding of

Therefore, to avoid vague or ambiguous language, the findings are at a level of specificity sufficient for a reader to understand the nature and extent of the procedures and findings. X.A33 If, in the practitioner’s judgment, certain terms are potentially uncertain in meaning, the practitioner may consider whether a glossary is appropriate in the circumstances. X.A34 The following table provides examples of appropriate and inappropriate descriptions of findings resulting from the application of certain specified procedures.

Written Representations X.20 The practitioner is not required to request or obtain written representations from the engaging party (Ref: par. X.A35-X.A37) X.21 When the practitioner decides to request written representations from the engaging party, the engaging party’s refusal to furnish written representations determined by the practitioner to be appropriate for the engagement constitutes a limitation on the performance of the engagement. In such circumstances, the practitioner should do one of the following:	Written Representations (Ref: par. X.20) X.A35 Although not required, the practitioner may find a representation letter to be a useful and practical means of obtaining representations from the engaging party. X.A36 The need for a representation letter may depend on the nature of the engagement, for example, an engagement related to compliance with specified requirements. X.A37 Examples of matters that may appear in a representation letter from the engaging party include the following:

a. Disclose in the practitioner’s specified procedures report the inability to obtain representations from the engaging party; or b. Withdraw from the engagement.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Statements acknowledging responsibility for <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • selecting the criteria and for determining that such criteria are sufficient and appropriate for their purposes • the sufficiency of the specified procedures to meet the objectives of the engagement • the subject matter, if applicable • the prevention and detection of fraud • ensuring that the entity complies with laws and regulations applicable to its activities • the accuracy and completeness of the records, documents, explanations, and other information, including significant judgments, the engaging party provided the practitioner for the engagement • A statement that the engaging party provided the practitioner with <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Access to all information of which the engaging party is aware that is relevant to the engagement, such as records, documents, and other matters • Additional information that the practitioner may request from the engaging party for the purpose of the specified procedures engagement • Unrestricted access to persons of whom the practitioner determines it necessary to make inquiries • A statement that all known matters contradicting the subject matter and any communication from regulatory agencies or others affecting the subject matter has been disclosed to the practitioner • A statement that access to all records relevant to the subject matter and the specified procedures • Other matters as the practitioner deems appropriate

Other Information X.22 If prior to or after the release of the practitioner’s report on specified procedures, the practitioner is willing to permit the inclusion of the report in a document that contains the subject matter and other information, the practitioner should read the other information to identify material inconsistencies, if any, with the subject matter or the report. If upon reading the other information, in the practitioner’s professional judgment (Ref: par. X.A38–X.A40) a. a material inconsistency between that other information and the subject matter or the report exists or b. a material misstatement of fact exists in the other information, the subject matter or the report, the practitioner should discuss the matter with the engaging party and take further action as appropriate. (Ref: par. X.A40)	Other Information (Ref: par. X.22) X.A38 Further actions that may be appropriate if the practitioner identifies a material inconsistency or becomes aware of a material misstatement of fact include, for example, the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Requesting the engaging party to consult with a qualified third party, such as the engaging party’s legal counsel • Obtaining legal advice about the consequences of different courses of action • If required or permissible, communicating with third parties (for example, a regulator) • Describing the material inconsistency in the practitioner’s report • Withdrawing from the engagement, when withdrawal is possible under applicable laws and regulations X.A39 Other information does not include information contained on the websites. Websites are a means of distributing information and are not, themselves, documents for the purposes of paragraph X.22. X.A40 In addition to the engaging party, the practitioner may discuss the matter with others such as those charged with governance.
Preparing the Practitioner’s Report X.23 The practitioner’s report on specified procedures should be in writing. (Ref: par. X.A41) X.24 The practitioner’s report on specified procedures should be in the form of procedures and findings.	Preparing the Practitioner’s Report (Ref: par. X.23) X.A41 This proposed standard does not require a standardized format for reporting on all specified procedures engagements. Instead it identifies the basic elements that the report on specified procedures is to include. Reports on specified procedures are tailored to the specific engagement circumstances. The practitioner may use headings, separate paragraphs, paragraph numbers, typographical devices (for example, the bolding of text), and other mechanisms to enhance the clarity and readability of the specified procedures report.
Content of the Practitioner’s Specified Procedures Report X.25 The practitioner’s report on specified procedures should include the following: (Ref: par. X.A58)	Content of the Practitioner’s Specified Procedures Report Title (Ref: par. .25a)

In these engagements the practitioner may issue one practitioner’s report that refers to all subject matter covered. X.A46 Because the practitioner is precluded from expressing an opinion or conclusion about whether the subject matter is in accordance with specified criteria, in identifying the nature of the specified procedures engagement it would not be appropriate to state that the purpose of the engagement was to determine if the subject matter was performed or is stated in accordance with specified criteria or that the practitioner performed the engagement to conclude as to whether the entity complied with specified criteria.
